

Overview: Homeschooling with college as the intended next step, requires foresight on our part. Here is what I've learned as an advisor to numerous homeschooled teens (including my own) who have obtained admittance at the colleges of their choice, as well as, tens of thousands of dollars in scholarship monies.

Part I: What do colleges, universities and scholarship committees look for in homeschooled applicants?

Part II: What to do in junior high

- A. Lay a foundation for later specialized learning
- B. Identify giftings, interests and calling

Part III: Sequence of courses in high school

- A. For community/junior colleges
- B. For 4 year universities
- C. For highly selective schools and scholarship considerations

Part IV: Opportunities not to be missed

- A. Sequence of tests (what do you take when, how should you prepare)
- B. Service
- C. Missions
- D. Entrepreneurial ventures and internships

Part V: Putting Your Best Foot Forward In Your Application and Your Interviews

Part VI: Securing Excellent Recommendations

Part VII: How Parents Can Best Help Their Teens through This Process.

Part VIII: Recommended Resources

A complete set of PowerPoint slides will be available to attendees following the session at DebraBell.com

Copyrighted Debra Bell, 1995-2010 Debra Bell's Home School Resource Center; P O Box 67, Palmyra, PA 17078 Web site: DebraBell.com

